SAFETY TOPIC OF THE MONTH: LANE VIOLATIONS

As you are already aware, a restricted lane violation is considered an UN-SAFE DRIVING violation by the DOT!

Keep in mind:

- I. In many states on roadways with more than 2 lanes each way (e.g. 4 lanes each way on an interstate), trucks are restricted to the right 2 lanes
- II. On roadways:
 - A. The yellow-color for lane markings separates travel lanes of traffic that travel in opposite directions
 - B. The white-color for lane markings separates travel lane of traffic that travel the same direction
 - C. Do not cross:
 1. A solid yellow line (e.g. No passing zone on a 2 lane highway)
 2. A solid white line (e.g. In a construction zone on an interstate)
